

THE FIRST OUTBREAK WILL CAUSE A RUSH NINE NEGRO VICTIMS LYNCHED BY A MOB

Of Troops to Border--General Carter is Awaiting Developments--Orders Affecting Movement of Whole Army Expected Soon.

INSURRECTOS GAIN RECRUITS

Ten Thousand Armed Men, Mostly Striking Miners, Prepared to Start Something in Territory Heretofore Free From Disturbances—American Reaches Eagle Pass From Chihuahua and Tells of Preparations for Attack on That City.

San Antonio, Tex., March 15.—It is expected that within the next few days orders will be issued directing the movement of a large part of the whole of the divisional army now assembled here under the command of Major General W. H. Carter to the border in the vicinity of Eagle Pass or El Paso. These orders will follow immediately upon a fresh outbreak of the Mexican insurrection in the hitherto unaffected districts south of the Rio Grande.

A telephone message received here from Eagle Pass conveys the information given there by an American who has just made his way through the newly affected district, that 10,000 revolutionists, most of whom are striking coal miners, are armed and waiting for the sign that means an assault on the federal garrisons. A spread of the revolution idea beyond all bounds delimited in the censured dispatches from Mexico and the imminence of the fall of the town of Chihuahua are two details given by this American.

Ammunition Train Arrives.
The fact that the commander of the army of 15,000 men now assembled in San Antonio has not neglected to take the most minute precautions against just the contingency that may arise across the Rio Grande before the end of the week, is demonstrated by the order which has gone to the local officials of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad not to disintegrate a trainload of ammunition which is due to arrive in the railroad yards within the next few days.

Another fact which has developed by the revelation of conditions given by the man from Chihuahua, and which indicates that revolt in the eastern strip of Chihuahua is imminent, was that the consulate of the United States at Ciudad Porfirio Diaz, the Mexican town across the border from Eagle Pass, is guarded. This fact was verified by long-distance telephone.

It is the report of the American who has just emerged from the infected territory that the insurrectionary outbreak now impending or already started is not sporadic or in any way haphazard, but the result of the preconceived plan of the Maderistas already in the field, and the first indication of the fact that finally the enemies of the Diaz government are coalescing. He says that the whole revolutionary movement has been progressing through the secret channels of Masonry, and he adds that the mobilization of the American troops has given heart to the insurrectionists, because they take it as indicative of the impending fall of the Diaz government.

Miners Well Armed.
According to the information which the American who arrived in Eagle Pass brings, 8,500 coal miners who have struck from the coal mines in Piedras Negras and the coal country south of that point to a point a distance of 100 miles from Ciudad Porfirio Diaz, are ready to form the backbone of the new army of insurrectionists. They are armed with guns and 50 rounds of ammunition apiece, both of which they have been secretly collecting from agents across the border in American territory for the past three months. Already there are 800 men in the field who have not as yet come in a clash with the federalists, but who are moving toward the beleaguered city of Chihuahua to join the insurrecto forces there. These insurrectos spring up from the country between Ciudad Porfirio Diaz and Piedras Negras within the past week, and after the order of

State Elephants Exhibited In India to German Crown Prince

WHEN it comes to pomp and ceremony some of the native princes of India have a great advantage over the European potentates. For instance, an elephant is an imposing spectacle when wearing only his dignity. Cover him with gaudy trappings, gold lace and braid, spangles, velvet and jewels, and he becomes truly magnificent. When Crown Prince Frederick William of Germany recently visited India great attention was paid to him, and at Allahabad a historic pageant was arranged in his honor. The picture above shows some of the richly caparisoned elephants that took part in the parade and made a tolerably successful effort at proving that the largest of quadrupeds is not behind the featherless bipeds in "putting on style." Next year when King George goes to Delhi to attend the durbar and be officially recognized as the emperor of India there will be another parade in which elephants will play a prominent part, and it is possible that the animals pictured above will walk with stately tread before the British ruler.

CITY OWNERSHIP BILL EFFECTUALLY DUMPED

Demise of Measure in Ohio House Alleged to be Chiefly Due to Activity of Railroad Lobby, in Which Influence All Parts of the State Played an Important Part.

LABOR MEMBERS AGAINST IT

House Reverses Itself by Passing Bertsch Measure Authorizing Municipalities to Go Into Pawnbrokerage Business—Senate Passes Shaffer Measure Revising Township Management Methods—House Passes Campaign Publicity Bill.

Columbus, O., March 15.—By a vote of 33 yeas to 64 nays the house killed the Geleard municipal ownership of street railways bill, the big lobby from all parts of the state playing an important part in the slaughter. Lobbyists have swarmed around the capital in the last few days representing streetcar companies in Ohio cities and working against this bill. They succeeded in getting a great majority of the city vote, together with that of the reactionaries from Montgomery and Hamilton counties. Several members known as labor members voted against the bill, among them Thomas of Wood, Shanley of Portage, Evans of Stark, Cooper of Youngstown and Colter of Lucas. Smith of Marion, who is the chief opponent of the labor measures, fought the bill on the floor.

Singularly enough, the day also was marked by action by the senate in passing the Bertsch bill, which recently passed the house, permitting municipalities to operate pawnshops. The house passed a restrictive corrupt practices act, designed to secure full publicity of all election expenses, whether by candidates or their friends, committees, or by organizations of whatever character. This would include the wet and dry organizations.

The Langdon tax code has been made a special order in the house for 2:15 p. m. tomorrow.

The bill introduced by Senator Shaffer of Paulding county, providing for reform in the administration of the affairs of township, was passed ed by the senate. The bill abolishes the office of township trustees, clerks and treasurers, and places all these duties in the hands of a township director, who must maintain office hours and give his attention to the work of the township. The bill is the first step taken by the legislature in years in the interests of township administration.

Charge Fund Raised.

Charges that money had been raised to defeat a bill backed by the retail druggists of Ohio to prevent the sale of poisonous drugs by itinerant vendors, were repeated in the senate. The bill eventually passed, receiving 21 yeas.

The house adopted the senate joint resolution introduced by Mr. Dore of Seneca, to create a state commission to arrange for representation of Ohio at the Panama canal celebration at San Francisco, consisting of five members—the governor and four others selected by him—and appropriating $3,000 for their use.

Among the bills introduced in the house was one by Mr. Haas of Delaware county, creating Charles A. Thatcher of Toledo an attorney. Thatcher was disbarred by the supreme court a year ago.

"Packy" McFarland Wins Over Moran

Makes English Champion Look Foolish in Ten-Round Bout.

New York, March 15.—A magnificent exhibition of scientific boxing enabled Packey McFarland of Chicago to score a signal victory over Owen Moran of England, in a 10-round bout at the Fairmont Athletic club. A crowd that packed the building expected this result, but nobody looked for such a brilliant performance as that shown by the American. McFarland's wonderful speed was chiefly responsible for his success. He was lightning in attack and defense, with an unerring left jabbed Moran incessantly, and scored points so rapidly that Moran was at times bewildered.

Wolgaet Announces Retirement.

New York, March 15.—Ad Wolgaet, holder of the world's lightweight championship, has announced his intention of permanently retiring from the ring. He will participate in two more bouts, one with Memsie and one with Hogan, before quitting the game. He will then retire to a farm near Cadillac, Mich.

STRIKE SITUATION IS SERIOUS

Railway Officials Refuse to Confirm or Deny Rumors of Murders Committed Along Lines in Southern States—Passengers Tell Tales of Rioting and Bloodshed Along Queen and Crescent Line—Engineers Threaten to Join Strike.

Lexington, Ky., March 15.—It is reported here on good authority that nine negroes were lynched in northern Tennessee, close to the Kentucky line, by striking firemen on the Cincinnati, New Orleans & Texas Pacific railroad, and their sympathizers. Several passengers arriving here from the south say that rioting and violence are going on in the mountains to a great extent. Railroad officials will neither affirm or deny the reports. Charles Swartz, the St. Louis detective, was shot while trying to hold off a mob at Glen Mary, Tenn.

An engineer who refused to allow the use of his name, said that three men were killed in the mountains near Kings Mountain, but no details could be obtained.

Not a freight train has left Lexington for 48 hours, and every passenger train goes out with a heavy guard. Over 50 Pinkerton detectives from St. Louis are working south from Danville to assist the already large force of special officers and detectives to protect lives and property along the Queen & Crescent.

From interviews with engineers on the Queen & Crescent, it is more than probable that the throttle men will quit work today and join the striking firemen.

Danville Grand Jury Reports

Returns 14 indictments Against Ward Healers, but Ignores Big Guns.

Danville, Ill., March 15.—After returning 37 indictments, but 14 of which were for political offenses, the grand jury was dismissed by Judge Kimbrough until April 17, day preceding the city election. No politicians or leading citizens were indicted, the accused being all precinct captains and workers.

William C. Brown, a member of the city election commission, was indicted for receiving money from a candidate to influence his vote.

The grand jury before adjourning adopted resolutions which will be sent to the governor and members of the state assembly from this district, asking that a law be enacted making the first offense for purchasing votes disfranchisement for five years, and the second disfranchisement for life.

Men And Cattle Killed In Wreck

Baltimore, March 15.—Five trainmen were injured and 1,000 cattle, sheep and hogs killed and three locomotives and several freight cars demolished when a train crashed into a 50-ton boiler at Alberton, Md., on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad.

Some Facts Concerning The Yount Telephone Bill

COPIED FROM NEW YORK LAW

The spirited public discussion throughout Ohio concerning the Yount senate bill regulating the telephone business, has brought out many features of this proposed legislation not apparent at first glance to the eye of the uninitiated. The more this bill is discussed and analyzed the more clear its manifold provisions become. The one that interests the real party in interest—the use of the telephone—is the almost limitless powers reposed in the commission. The commission will be it when it takes hold of the industry. There is hardly a telephone user in the state who has not at one time or other in his experience as a user of the service, had some little unpleasantness—big to him—but perhaps considered small by the company—that has rankled in his bosom for many a day. He has wanted service extended maybe to an outlying farm or factory, construction that the company didn't care to do; perhaps he has called up his company and has been given a short, discourteous answer; again, he may have had a serious conflict with some routine for collecting bills imposed by the company—something that seemed to him without reason or justice, and has kicked, but to what avail?

In the past, unfortunately, some public service corporations have felt that they had a divine right to do about as they pleased; that the highest law was not the will of the people; in a word, their doctrine was that of a certain celebrated capitalist, who enunciated that famous pronouncement, "The public be damned!"

Too many corporations have been absolutely unmindful of the fundamental fact that they and not the public are the real servants in the business of supplying a public need. It is this unfortunate perspective that has created the overwhelming public sentiment throughout the land for stringent regulation of all public utilities, and has already resulted in the enactment into law in a dozen states of the principles underlying the proper regulation of telephone industry. There is possibly no other business that comes so thoroughly into our everyday life, social and business, as the telephone. It is constantly at one's side in business and in the home; it is an essential and integral part of our very existence. If it is possible to regulate and closely supervise this business—and other states have blazed the way—the Ohio legislature proposes to do this very thing.

Under the terms of the New York law, which is considered an admirable statute, and which Senator Yount has followed in his proposed law, it is the duty of the commission, and they do their duty, to really manage the telephone business in that state in the interests of the public; in fact, the commission recognizes that the public should not be considered simply in the light of a useful, financial contributor, but as the real parties in interest. The telephone companies have been quick to see the handwriting on the wall and are adopting the policy of treating their subscribers as associates in their business rather than mere customers as that term is ordinarily used. It is realized that the active co-operation and support of the patron is required in every department of the business.

Telephone companies exist primarily under rights granted to them by the public, and without such rights they could not be in business at all. Accordingly, it is only proper that the public, through its duly appointed law makers, should establish a commission whose duty would be reviewing and supervising the work of the telephone companies.

Under state control, the commission, as pointed out in the foregoing, can compel the companies to build lines to subscribers now without service; can compel the establishment and maintenance of proper and reasonable rates; can compel courteous and fair treatment on the part of the employees of the telephone company; and can completely supervise the companies in all of their relations to the patron and the public.

Senator Yount has made a complete study of the whole matter, has consulted with the Ohio telephone operators and with the authorities of other states in order that he might produce an ideal statute. He has had his ear to the ground and believes that there is an increasing and undeniable demand from the people for this regulation; he believes that the feeling on the part of the telephone user, the investor and the banking interests who produce funds for exploitation of enterprises, is that the waste of duplication of capital and effort must stop. The banker, for example, feels that every dollar in existence should do the greatest amount of work in the building up of enterprise and industry; that its efficiency should in no way be impaired; that it should be given the greatest assistance in the work of up-building. The banking interests of Ohio have felt, and expressed themselves to that effect, that the duplication of investment in the telephone field was an economic waste, a burden not only on the resources of the country, but a burden falling heavily upon the user of the telephone service who is really the source of all the company's revenue. In a town where there are two telephones the dollar earns far below its real power because the money is diverted into two channels; there are two expense accounts for the companies to pay and two bills for the subscriber to pay, while that factor in the situation goes an inferior service, or, if he gets all the service, pays double for it. If Senator Yount has his way it will be possible for the independent telephone companies in the state to take over the business of the Bell Company in at least 89 per cent. of the state, it is estimated. With the business put on the right basis the dollar will go into one channel, increased efficiency will result, together with decreased expense to the telephone company through concentration of effort; and in this the public will be the big gainer, for it will be the manifest duty of the commission to see that the people get the benefit of any savings from this source.

Senator Yount has discovered.

through receipt of thousands of letters from individuals and active business interests in all parts of Ohio, that the telephone user, while not unmindful of the enormous effect of competition in bringing the telephone business to its present high state of development in Ohio, in forcing the companies to take their subscribers into close business association, in cutting out the former "Public be damned" policy and promulgating the present "Public be pleased" policy, has felt that competition has served its purpose admirably, and that the trend of the times is toward the doctrine "Co-operation, not competition, is the life of trade," and that this co-operation can best be secured and the rights of the public at the same time best safeguarded, not by wasteful competition, but by the regulation of competition and the creation of co-operation through the medium of state control.

Two Tots Poisoned.

Fairport, O., March 15.—Little Susie Bell, 18 months, is dead as a result of eating strychnine tablets which had been placed on a shelf for rats. At the same hour that the Bell child died, Emma, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Molnar of Lorain was also dying. She toddled into an unused room and found strychnine tablets, which she ate. When she was missed by her mother a search revealed her dying in convulsions.

McLean Case Is Dropped Off Trial List

Among the cases assigned for trial on the present assignment list was that of Daniel T. McLean vs. The M. Hamm Fertilizer Company. This was the branch of the case in which Mr. McLean was seeking a perpetual injunction against the company the other branch an action at law for money having been tried some time ago and a verdict rendered in favor of McLean.

The damage suit is now in the Circuit court on the petition of the company to reverse the verdict of the jury.

The company on Tuesday made application to the court to have the injunction case dropped until the other case was heard in the Circuit court. This McLean objected to and insisted on trial according to assignment.

Judge Carpenter on Wednesday morning vacated the assignment as asked for by McLean.

JUNIUS PAVEY SETTLES FINE

Wednesday morning in the Common Pleas Court the motion filed by Junius Pavey, convicted with Cornelius McCoy, last week of assault and battery, to set aside the verdict of the jury and for a new trial was overruled after extended argument.

Thereupon the court sentenced Mr. Pavey to pay a fine of $25 and pay one-half of the costs of prosecution. Pavey promptly paid up thus indicating that he had no intention of prosecuting error to the Circuit court to reverse the finding of the common pleas court.

The other defendant found guilty with Pavey by the jury's verdict, Cornelius McCoy, has not yet appeared, although he has filed a motion for a new trial.

A WASHINGTON GIRL PROMINENT AT UNIVERSITY

Miss Nina Rowe is One of the Leading Characters in "The School Mistress," Which the Fair Co-Eds of Ohio State Will Give This Year at the Great Southern Theater.

Miss Nina Rowe, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. D. H. Rowe of this city, now a student at the Ohio State University is prominent in the amateur theatrical work in which the fair "Co-Eds" are indulging this year. In preparation for the "School Mistress" to be given at the Southern theater on March 24th by "The Strollers" of the Ohio State university, the girls of the cast will visit the Colonial theater this week, and spend an afternoon with Miss Fay Courteney, to learn a few things on the art of makeup. The play to be presented by The strollers this year was selected especially for a downtown performance. Formerly the play has been an exclusive college production in the university chapel, but in accordance with a large number of requests, it was decided to give it at one of the city theaters and extend a general invitation to the public to attend. The members of the club have been rehearsing for some time but several of the girls in the cast were not very well versed in the art of "make-up," so Miss Courteney kindly offered to give them a few instructions and extended the girls an invitation to attend one of the matinees of "Such a Little Queen" and watch the play from the stage. Miss Rowe has shown an unusual talent in matters theatrical as well as in her regular course of studies. This talented girl is a great favorite with faculty and students alike.

Unique Entertainment Closes Club Year

The Browning club, made up of women who are nothing, if not original, reveled in a unique entertainment Tuesday night as a merry finale to a year of hard study and excellent work.

Each department vied in putting on some ridiculous stunt and in costuming to carry out its idea.

The members of the Art department wore the draperies of classic Greece and Mrs. Jennie Parrett recited with dramatic fervor James Ball Naylor's "The Legend of the Making of a Woman".

The History department recalled Colonial days and the members looked very quaint in dresses, worn by their grandmothers and bonnets a hundred years old.

They gave a march in which their masquerade was very effective and went through the movements the second time to show that "History Repeats Itself."

The Social Science and Philanthropy department, in the guise of red cross nurses and various noted reformers, evidently believed that "variety is the spice of life". Mrs. Burgett and Miss Van Kirk played a duet in different keys and the members gave selections from their best papers in concert.

Characters made famous by noted authors, such as Aunt Samantha Allen, stepped out with the calling of the Literature department and Mrs. Reba Bey recited one of James Whitcomb Riley's poems.

The Department of Household Economics created fun galore in their Dairy Maid song and drill, the whole department costumed as maids.

The evening was altogether one of the jolliest imaginable.

Mrs. D. H. Rowe, the retiring President, who has filled the office with immense capability, acted as floor manager.

Delicious refreshments were served.

Mrs. Paul Bowen, of Tecumseh, Mich., and Mrs. Chauncey Randall, of Columbus, were out-of-town guests.

CONTINUAL TURMOIL.

The political troubles of the descendants of Spain in America in respect to government seems to be chronic and without end. For the last three-quarters of a century there is scarcely a year in which there has not been a state of civil war or political convulsion in the countries ruled by descendants of the Spanish race. Permanency in any such countries there has been none.

These people seem not only to be incapable of governing themselves, but in addition are incapable of being governed by others. This produces eternal strife and war, which is incompatible not only with social and political progress, but with the maintenance of that order upon which civilization must exist.

The trouble that has recently developed in Mexico now seems to assure the end of the Diaz government. The United States realizing the possibilities and obligations of the Monroe Doctrine, has half of its regular army at the border awaiting future developments. This country is expected to protect the lives and property of its own citizens, but also that of European subjects as well.

There can be no form of permanent self-government in any country where the population is largely composed of ignorant, treacherous mongrels and Indians; conditions will be such that will endanger their own existence, but also may cause complications of such a character as to endanger the peace of this country.

Every independent government from Mexico to Cape Horn owes its existence to the United States. No matter how small or weak, the strong arm of the Great Republic protects them in their independence, yet in many of them an American citizen is the most hated of any foreigner, and is subject to insult and in many instances to gross outrage. The dislike to Americans is more vindictive and general in Mexico than in any other state.

An ex-army officer of England spent the past year in the City of Mexico and speaks in part as follows: "An American citizen unless he is wealthy and connected with some of the big corporations, is treated with the utmost contempt, and is subject to insult and assaults and in several instances American citizens have been killed by Mexicans."

The Mexican papers controlled by Mexicans are indifferent to these conditions and pass up such treatment to Americans with little or no notice. The entire press of Mexico, both Spanish and American, is subsidized by the government. It is a notorious fact, indignities heaped upon American citizens in Mexico, that the diplomatic representatives of England, Germany, France and Japan and other powers would not stand for one minute. While President Taft in his message was telling the people of the cordial relations existing between the United States and Mexico, citizens of the States were being insulted and subjected to indignities that had they been English or German, would have caused those governments to demand quick satisfaction of President Diaz. While dispatches to the press of the United States show that the revolutionary forces are gaining in power, the real situation is not disclosed; since the revolutionary army started its fight against Diaz rule it has grown in strength and influence until now it is master of the situation. It is a well known fact that Diaz's army, numerically 30,000 all told, is composed largely of convicts, without a spark of patriotism for the cause for which they are supposed to fight.

The only possible existing remedy for these conditions seems to be the complete sovereignty of this country, not only in Mexico, but all the Central American states to the Panama Canal. In the event of war between this country and some other strong power which is liable to occur by reason of the enforcement of the Monroe Doctrine, for the benefit of these turbulent countries, it might be necessary to reach the Canal by land, which under present conditions we cannot do.

A sovereignty which is not annexation of territory, but a supreme power to enforce law and order seems to be about the only way now open for the United States to maintain the Monroe Doctrine and even that, while it would avoid complications, would entail a peck of trouble on this government.

This flood of war-like "ifs" With all due respect, we rise recalls an old one—"If the sky were to fall it would catch a lot of fools".

Stretching the truth is one thing; smashing it all to bits, as some members of the Headliners' Union have been doing, is quite another.

Oh, no; Congressmen are never—at least, hardly ever—coerced. But they do say that former Congressman Hull's vote against reciprocity cost him a $3,000 job.

Of course the German editors who refer to the "piratical exploits" of the United States are strong for universal peace and brotherhood.

Taft says that little army in Texas isn't after Mexico, but shucks, what does he know about it—he's only the man who ordered the movement.

POETRY FOR TODAY

KIPPERED KIPLING.

"What makes you look so mystified?" said Files-on-Parade.
"I'm wondering what it's about," the Color Sergeant said.
"You're wondering what's all about?" said Files-on-Parade.
"The movement on the Rio Grande," the Color Sergeant said.
"For we're ordered off to Texas, where cattle horns is long. We'll camp along the Rio Grande full twenty thousand strong. So far as anyone can see or hear there's nothing wrong. And we're just a little curious about it."

"What makes the earth to tremble so?" said Files-on-Parade.
"The army going to the front," the Color Sergeant said.
"What's all the stir along the coast?" said Files-on-Parade.
"The navy getting under way," the Color Sergeant said.
"For the sailors and the soldiers are alike upon the way. It looks like there was trouble, but they say it's only play. Just what it all amounts to there is no one cares to say. And we're just a little curious about it."

"What's all the secrecy about?" said Files-on-Parade.
"We give it up, we give it up," the Color Sergeant said.
"What's that as sounds so loud, so loud?" said Files-on-Parade.
"It's everybody asking why," the Color Sergeant said.
"The best that we can make of it is we're to hang about To keep the revolutionists who hide among us out. But, inasmuch as the police could tend to it, no doubt. We're just a little curious about it."

Insurgents Begin The Fight For Economy

Apel to Soft Berths For Congressional Lame Ducks.

Washington, March 15. — When Congress meets in extra session President Taft's general plan for economy in public expenditures is likely to get vigorous support from the insurgent Republican senators. They believe that substantial progress can be made in the direction of economy by abolishing some of the commissions or at least reducing the salaries now paid to former senators and representatives who have encumbered themselves in these government berths. Some of the senate insurgents are prepared to argue that the policy of reducing the salaries of clerks in the classified service and at the same time paying large salaries to "lame ducks" from Capitol hill is a misguided plan of retrenchment which saves at the spigot but wastes at the bung.

The insurgents have directed their attention, for instance, to the international commission on boundary waters, a joint claim with Canada. A lump sum was appropriated by Congress for this commission. The state department fixed the salaries of the American commissioners at $10,000 a year each. The president, upon the urgent recommendation of senators and representatives, appointed ex-Senator Thomas H. Carter of Montana and ex-Representative James A. Tawney of Minnesota as members of the commission. The salary to be paid the commissioners is $2,500 more than they drew as legislators.

"Buffalo Bill" First Senator.
Tucson, Ariz., March 15.—It is semi-officially stated here that Colonel William F. Cody, "Buffalo Bill," plans to round out his career as one of the great pathfinders of the west by becoming the first United States senator from Arizona. He does not deny the rumor. He has established not only a home here, but a permanent camp in the mountains.

Seized With Fear Of Camorra

Naples Pay Fines Rather Than Serve on Jury.
Viterbo, Italy, March 15.—According to the Italian law the presence of 50 jurymen in court is required before a jury can be empaneled. This is done because it is supposed to provide a sufficient number to re-fracture any jurymen who may be endangered by the defense or prosecution. So far during the trial of the big batch of Camorrista for the murder of Gennaro Cuccolo and his wife two lists of 50 each have been drawn, but only 26 attended court at the opening of the trial. The remainder either had claimed exemption on one ground or another or were absent without any explanation. The judge, Cavaliere Bianchi, imposed fines of $160 apiece on six of the absentees and threatened to fine the entire lot. This, however, will do no good, as the jurymen are willing to pay any fine in order to escape duty on the jury that is to decide the fate of many of the leaders of the "honorable society of the Camorra of Naples."

"Blind Man" Eloquent" Is Dead

Was Known Throughout Country as "Blind Man Eloquent."
Bellevue, O., March 15.—Judge William H. West, 87, widely known as the "Blind Man Eloquent" who lost his sight while a member of the supreme court of Ohio, is dead. During his career he was a member of the general assembly, attorney general and candidate for governor. He was prominent in the early history of the Republican party and nominated Blaine for the presidency in 1884.

Loyalty Is Strong With Ohio Farmers

Turn Deaf Ear to Canadian Land Agents.

Columbus, O., March 15.—The people of Ohio are very much enthused over the project to teach agriculture in the public schools, according to A. P. Sandies, secretary of the state board of agriculture, who is in charge of the Ohio agricultural car now touring the state. At several stopping points the big train would not hold all who came, and overflow meetings had to be held, while the corps of 20 lecturers were taxed to their utmost.

Of the many agricultural trains run in Ohio, none have been greeted with such tremendous crowds as this one. The great interest of the town people, who have been heretofore somewhat indifferent toward farm development work, was one of the most striking features and lessons of the day.

The exhibit car caused hundreds of people to say, "We'll stay right here in Ohio." They are learning that all that other states can do, Ohio can do. Land and promoting agents from Canada, the far western and southern states, all in the future find stimulus in Ohio, according to Mr. Sandies.

The counter movement has set in, and Ohio people are finding out that this is the best state in the Union for agricultural products, and they have the best and greatest markets at home—right at their door.

"THE HOUSE THAT MAKES GOOD."

OLD TIMES REFLECTED IN THE HERALD OF '66

Interesting Paper Found by Miss Lucy Gillespie Among Old Effects Recalls Vividly to Older Citizens the Past Glories of Washington--Men Prominent in Affairs of That Day Were as Active as Our Men of Present Days.

Miss Lucy Gillespie has in her possession a copy of "The Herald" of August 2, 1866, that is of great interest to all that have seen it.

Yellow and discolored with age, worn so thin that it is full of holes, it is indeed a treasured relic and makes real to the present generation personalities and events relegated to a dead past.

Following, as it does, the days of the Civil War, the pages pulse with the issues of that epoch and the out-growing politics and policies which led to the shaping of the present day regime.

Politics were certainly a factor in Fayette county and the names of a number of active early politicians have in announcements for their candidacy in the Union Primary elections. Among these are Anthony Ross, Capt. Allen Hegler, Enoch Reader, for County Commissioner; Z. W. Heagler, County Recorder; Curran Millikan, County Infirmary Director; Dr. O. A. Allen and Richard Millikan, Clerk of the Court of Common Pleas; Col. C. Garis and James Straley, for Sheriff; Gen. S. B. Yeoman, Probate Judge.

Mr. James Straley who was elected to the office of Sheriff was the only sheriff who ever hung a man in this county. The notable case of George Washington Smith, the only man sentenced to hang in this county will be remembered by many older citizens.

This paper gives an account of the Sixth District convention held in Hillsboro, July 25, 1866. The late Hon. Jas. Pursell was active as chairman on Committee on Credentials and A. C. Johnson, president of old Fayette County Bank, now The P. & D., was appointed secretary from Fayette.

The official directory was as follows:

Judge Common Pleas court, A. S. Dickey of Highland; Probate Judge, M. Willard; Prosecuting Attorney, J. B. Priddy; Sheriff, Jas. Straley; Clerk of Court, R. Millikan; Auditor, Abel McCandless; Treasurer, A. E. Slicott; Recorder, Z. W. Heagler; Surveyor, Jacob Cravener; Coroner, Jacob Carr; Commissioners, Wm. H. Jones, B. H. Burnett, B. F. Thomas.

The Union Central committee was represented in Union township by Capt. Allen Hegler, Curran Millikan, M. J. Williams; School Examiners, D. C. Eastman, H. H. Edwards, J. B. Priddy.

In the lodge notices, S. W. Cissna was Noble Grand of Temple lodge; Hon. Mills Gardner, W. M. of F. & A. M.

Gardner, pastor of the M. E. church was ducked by some men at Georgetown, Ky. His offense was preaching to the negroes.

The Fayette County Agricultural Fair was even in 1866 well established and one paragraph in an article on the Fair refers to "Fayette county's wide reputation for producing fine stock and stockmen are ambitious of possessing the best grades of stock in the state."

There is a long article on the "Fayette County Sabbath School Union" held in Bloomingburg. Mr. W. A. Ustick, father of the late G. M. Ustick and T. M. Ustick, presided, and Rev. E. Cooper of the Presbyterian church of that village, together with the late J. M. Edwards, D. E.

Noice, A. Maun, J. A. Pinkerton, L. C. Van Deman, J. W. Gillespie, Andrew Hamilton, John M. Pinkerton, R. A. Robinson and others were active in the organization.

The Baptist Social Circle is announced to meet at the home of Mr. Edgar Plumb.

The paper shows that as long ago as 1866 the city's merchants were good advertisers and the leading firms of that day put forth their claims in numerous ads not as much on the display order, as today's advertising demands--S. N. Yeoman & Co., Van Deman and Devis, J. S. Pereman, De Witt & Co., Cissna & Sturgeon, B. E. Orr, Knapp & Wiatt, Henry Robinson & Co., R. Millikan, Wm. Robinson, J. L. Van Deman & Co., Dorbach & Stevens, H. Shook & Co., Dahl & Getz, A. Hamilton & Co., Saxton & Son, John A. Paul, S. C. Jenkins & Co., Misses C. Witt & C. Lemary, Fanny Mantz & Co. are the leading advertisers, covering all branches of retail business, the demands of 50 years ago seem to be quite similar to those of today.

Instead of the Sutherland Sisters, and their floor trailing locks, "Ring's Vegetable Ambrosia" is put forth to be the magic cure "if you would not be bald or grey," and its merit is cried in touching stanzas beginning,

"This is the man who was bald and gray. Who now has raven locks, they say. He used the cure that lay In the Ambrosia that Ring made."

Judging by the advertising of this paper of half a century ago Washington was an active business center and even then was able to supply widely varying needs.

The paper is an interesting curiosity recalling as it does so many Jenkins & Co., Messrs C. Witt & C.

ARRESTED BY SHERIFF ON A SERIOUS CHARGE

J. W. Martin Wanted at Chillicothe to Answer to Charge Made by Probation Officer--Stoutly Denies His Guilt and Readily Accompanies the Officer. Taken to Chillicothe.

Sheriff Nelson today placed under arrest J. W. Martin, who is wanted by the Chillicothe officials to answer to a charge of contributing to the delinquency of Hazel Ward, a thirteen-year-old girl.

Martin was located by the sheriff on the Harlow farm about 8 miles north of this city on the Jamestown pike where he was employed by Jas. McDonald, who has the farm rented.

Armed with a warrant for his arrest issued by the Mayor of Chillicothe on affidavit filed by the probation officer, Sheriff Nelson made the arrest Wednesday afternoon. Martin made no denial of his identity, but stoutly protested his innocence of the charge made against him. Says he can't understand it at all unless it is a conspiracy to compel him to stay at home.

He is about 35 or 40 years of age and a fairly well appearing man. He has a wife and two very small children at Chillicothe, but has not been supporting them for some time.

Hazel Ward is a niece of his wife and has made her home with the Martin family for some time.

Chillicothe officials came over Wednesday evening on the 4 o'clock train and took Martin back to Chillicothe to answer to the serious charge made against him.

Columbus Workhouse Out Of Market

No more prisoners from other cities will be accepted at the Columbus workhouse until the congestion there is relieved. "The place is swamped," says Director of Safety McCune. "A corridor in the city prison will have to be set aside to care for the overflow."

Communications were sent to outside cities Saturday cancelling existing contracts.

Just what arrangements will be made for the disposal of Washington's criminal delinquents of the petty sort will not be known for some little time yet, but it is highly probable that a contract will be made with another workhouse, possibly at Dayton.

Of late Washington has not been sending many prisoners to the works.

Much Interest Attached to the Will of Prominent Jefferson Township Woman, Read Monday Afternoon in Probate Court--A. R. Creamer Named as One of the Executors.

The will of Mrs. Rachel Fent, of Jeffersonville was read in the Probate court Monday afternoon.

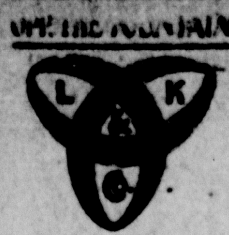

Item 1st, provides for an obligation entered into to pay the Kansas City University, an educational institution of the M. P. church, the sum of $1000 and any interest accruing thereto; also all funeral expenses, inscription on monument and costs of administering estate.

Item 2 bequeaths to Alta Kibler my buggy, and Alta and Flora Kibler all household and kitchen furniture, including carpets, curtains, bedding and effects, including wearing apparel. To Pearl Hays, wife of my nephew Lynn Hays, my gold watch and chain.

Item 3 bequeaths to nephew, Lynn Hays, the sum of $300 in money.

Item 4 bequeaths the residue of estate when converted into money to Rella Straley, Bertie Blessing, Herman Smith and Lola Smith (children of brother, Eli Smith), and Alta Kibler and Flora Kibler (children of sister, Minerva Kibler), and Elda Glass (child of deceased sister Catherine Robinson), and Frank Coe, share and share alike.

The will appoints Eli Smith and A. R. Creamer executors. A codicil provides that all household and kitchen effects given in item 2 to Alta and Flora Kibler, be sold by executors and the proceeds pass under item 4 as part of the residue funds.

WAITING FOR HIM.

"Yes, mum," said Peetie Pete, as he twined an autumn leaf through his buttonhole. "I am a great lover of the romantic. I stopped at his gate because I saw the sign 'Idlewood.'"

"You did?" approved the housewife. "Well, there is a lot of idle wood down at the wood pile. Just take this ax and split up half a cord."

NICE DISTINCTION.

Little Willie--Say pa, what is the difference between a close friend and a dear friend?

Pa--A close friend, my son, is one who will not lend you any money, while a dear friend is one who borrows all you will stand for.

APPREHENSIVE.

She--We've been married four months, and I haven't given you a chance of trying my cooking yet, dear.

He--My girl, you're not getting tired of me already are you?

Hello!

The whole Southland never claimed a sweeter, more lovable and gentle woman, but she could never be persuaded to use a phone.

"Lately the entire household was down with the grippe, and there was no one else able to call a physician in the night."

After ringing up "Central" this dear little woman became panic-stricken and could not think of the word the household used when they wanted exchange. Hurriedly she put up the receiver and whispered into the astonished ear of the telephone girl the word:

"Hurrah!"

Gas Company Soliciting Patrons In Bloomington

The Central Contract and Finance Company which supplies the local Gas and Electric Company with the Natural Gas through a large pipe line from Midway through Bloomington, is now engaged in soliciting patrons in the village of Bloomington. At that place already forty people have signified their willingness to become consumers of natural gas. The agreement to take Bloomington on the line is a big boost for the residents of the little town, who will now have one of the greatest comforts of a big city.

IT'S YOUR NERVES THAT AIL YOU

Don't Lay the Blame to the Stomach, Blood, Heart or Bowels

It's the nerves that are the real offenders nine times out of ten. But don't leave it to nature alone to make them well. Nature can only go so far. When that point is reached nature needs aid. Morse's Glycerole will do more in less time to build up your nerves and your body as a whole than any other remedial agency yet discovered. For it doesn't stop with lending a little aid to the stomach. It doesn't help in a little way the tired and worn-out nerves, leaving the blood to look after itself. It grips, holds, strengthens starts to build up, recharges and revitalizes the whole body, inside and out. Blackmer & Tanquary will guarantee it to do so. Try it. If it fails short, bring the partly-used bottle back and get your money. But it won't fall short. Two sizes, 50c and $1.00. Be sure to ask for our 24-page book, "Do You Suffer?" It is free.

DANGEROUS FINGER NAILS

Many people do not seem to know that as far as their health goes, it is worse to have dust under the finger nails than to have it on the end of the nose or in the middle of the cheek; for some of the worst microbes may be packed away in the dust under the nails, and such microbes may enter any scratch or cut we have; they may also go into our mouths with the food we touch with our fingers. In fact, this is the most important reason for keeping the nails clean, though the second reason is the one that people think most about. They want their fingers to match their clean face and their clean clothes. They are ashamed not to have any part of the body look as clean as another part. For the sake of beauty, therefore, they keep their nails well cleaned and trimmed. This is a good reason, too. You can buy a stiff little brush with a wooden back at any grocery store for three or five cents. It will not be handsome, but the bristles will get under the nails as well as if it had an ivory back. For five or ten cents more, you can buy a nail file and cleaner at any hardware shop. Use the water, the soap, and the brush until your nails really look clean, or until the dust is so soft under them that the nail cleaner will take it out without any trouble. Never clean the nails with a knife or scissors or any sharp thing that takes out the rust by scraping the nail. You will make it rough, and it will be harder to get the dust out next time. Never scrape the top of the nail either; you will simply make it grow thick and clumsy.

Coffee in England.
The American opinion of coffee as understood in the English home is not high, and how the coffee of the English lodgings is esteemed may be understood from the following traveler's tale. It was his first morning in London "apartments," and his landlady came up with the breakfast, and as he began his meal opened a slight conversation.
"It looks like rain," she said.
"It does," replied the American; "but it smells rather like coffee."

A wife smothered her husband with a pillow of a dollar shirt and himself with a pair of silk stockings costing 95c. What was the cost of all?
A man who desires to move a coal stove weighing 300 pounds calls in a neighbor to lift 150 pounds of the weight. How much was left for the owner of the stove and what did the other man say when he got home?
A tramp has 200 feet to go to reach a gate, while a farmer's dog has 200 feet to go to bite the tramp. The tramp is traveling twelve miles an hour and the dog twenty. How near the gate will Weary be when the teeth get him?

A man pays 50 cents for laughing gas to have a tooth pulled. The dentist could have pulled six as well as the one and without extra cost. How much was the patient out of pocket by hanging on to his teeth?
A young man wagers 50 cents that he can put a billiard ball into his mouth and he wins the bet. To get the ball out a surgeon has to knock out seven teeth, which a dentist charges $1.50 to replace and the services of the surgeon are worth $10 more. What was the financial gain to the smarty?

Just An Every-Day Case.

A Boston merchant who had been doing some thinking and whose books showed a profit where there was none on hand, decided to interview his clerk about it, and calling him into the office, he said:
"John Henry, you have taken $500 of my money since January."
"That is so," was the reply. "I took it to speculate in cotton and lost every cent."
"I must send you to state prison."
"Oh, no! After taking the six hundred and losing it I gobbled on to eight hundred and this time, speculating in wheat, I made so much that I can pay you back the fourteen hundred and have enough left to buy a race horse. But for my honesty you'd be way behind the game. Why don't you go visiting and leave me full swing?"

Hired Girl Immune.

"Have you any alarm clocks?" inquired a customer.
"Yes, ma'am," said the man behind the counter. "About what price do you wish to pay for one?"
"The price is no object if I can get the kind I am after. What I want is one that will arouse the hired girl without waking the whole family."
"I don't know of any such alarm clock as that, ma'am," said the man. "We keep just the ordinary kind—the kind that will wake the whole family without disturbing the hired girl."

The Un-Appian Way.

A pageant recently given in Shropshire commemorating Britain at the time of the Roman occupation, a young woman spoke to a tall, burly and shivering man whose Roman toga hardly protected him from a raw, penetrating east wind.
"Are you Appian Claudius?" she asked eagerly.
"Me, miss?" he replied dismally.
"Me, appy as Claudius? Oh, no, miss. I'm unhappy as 'ell."

He, She or It?

Aged Bachelor (who has forgotten, if he ever knew, whether the baby is a boy or a girl)—Well, well! But he's a fine little chap, isn't she? How old is it now? Do her teeth bother him much? She's the image of you, isn't she? Oh come now, everyone says it is.
And both parents agreed afterward that little Peter is a cross, horrid, stupid, cantankerous old beast.

Well Qualified.

"The one thing we demand from our employees," said the head of the office force, "is correctness in figures."
The applicant smoothed her hipless skirt complacently.
"I have never had any complaints on that score," she replied with a glance of assurance.

At the Circus.

First Farmer—This here is the grandest weakest lemonade I ever drank.
Second Farmer—Maybe they handed you the lemon.
First Farmer—Handed me a lemon? Gosh, blame it! They didn't even hand me a slice of lemon.

Just an Argument.

"Good gracious, isn't that your husband across the street there quarrelling with the man on the opposite porch?"
"Oh, they're not really quarrelling. They dispute that way every night. George is a monopolist and Mr. Stiggins is a biplanist."

A long-winded, proxy counselor was arguing a technical case recently before one of the judges of the superior court. He had drifted along in such a desultory way that it was hard to keep track of what he was trying to present, and the judge had just vented a very suggestive yawn.
"I sincerely trust that I am not unduly trespassing on the time of this court," said the lawyer, with a suspicion of sarcasm in his voice.

"There is some difference," the judge quietly observed, "between trespassing on time and encroaching on eternity."

"I certainly was a regular devil when I was young."
"Don't boast of it. It's a safe bet that your 21-year-old son can give you cards and spades and laugh at you now."

Ohio Happenings

Dick Goes to Penitentiary.
Columbus, O., March 15.—Judge Rogers sentenced Edward Jay Dick, 32, to the penitentiary for 18 months. Dick, who is a son of Rev. W. V. Dick of Marietta, former presiding elder of the Methodist church in this district, pleaded guilty to stealing $1,990 worth of diamonds from Mrs. Margaret Carvey.

Pen to Entertain Preachers.
Columbus, O., March 15.—Five Cleveland ministers shortly will be sent to the Ohio penitentiary, says a dispatch from the Forest City. They will not come through the medium of court action, however, but as investigators to ferret out conditions as they are and see what is going on. First-hand information is what they are after. So they will seek to sit and hang around the idle house, and if Warden Jones doesn't hang out the S. R. O. sign they'll take a bed at the big inn for a night and see what strange stuff pen dreams are wrought of.

Falling Slate Kills Two.

Steubenville, O., March 15.—John Sarey, an Italian workman, and his beloved "buddy," James Garboski, were both killed in the Bradley mine. Garboski's pick loosened an avalanche of slate, which buried him many feet in the ruins. Disregarding warnings that he could not rescue the man and that he would lose his own life, Sarey went to work frantically removing the slate. "He is my buddy and I must help him," answered Sarey as the second crash came, burying the rescuer with the first victim.

Durr Pronounced Guilty.

Cincinnati, O., March 15.—Peter W. Durr, Clerk of the Hamilton county courts, was found guilty of contempt of court by a committee appointed by Judge Frank Gorman to investigate grand jury charges that Durr had consulted with a witness prior to the witness' appearance before the grand jury in the public funds gratuity probe. Durr is a prominent member of the Republican organization.

Freight Conductor Killed.

Loran, O., March 15.—John A. Morris, 45, freight conductor on the Hocking Valley division of the Hocking Valley railroad, whose home was in Columbus, was instantly killed at the Oldtown block, one mile east of here, when he slipped and fell between two freight cars. His body was cut in two.

"NOT IN THE CATALOGUE"

The reading room was as quiet as a tomb. Now and then some student turned a page impatiently and the paper gave forth a sharp rustle as though aggrieved at such irreverent treatment, but visitors and attendants alike moved about with silent tread, rubber caps rendered chair legs noiseless when they were moved, and the very card catalogue drawers moved on silent ways.

Linda loved this quiet. After the clatter and clutter of a busy office which she had been compelled to escape because of nerves threatened to grow unruly, the bookish silence of the reading room was more than grateful. She was sorry when the closing hour came, and after a brief interval spent in checking up the slips and seeing that the books were replaced in their proper stacks, she had to go out into the turmoil of the busy street.

The quiet place was never lonesome. Linda had many friends among those quiet, studious men and women who spent their days pouring over the reference books. There was the little old woman from the costumers who spent days over old books in search of correct pictures of the dresses of by-gone days; there was the little old German who was reading everything he could find upon chemistry, and there was the tall, quiet man who displayed a singular catholicity of taste. One day it would be books on astronomy that he wanted, and again he would be interested in geography or chemistry.

Of them all this man Ballington was the most regular in his attendance and seemed the most like an old friend. It was he who had quietly aided Linda with suggestions which she had first come to the room. He had been a "regular" and had known more of the routine than she did. But it was often that Linda was able to help him with a suggestion as to new book, for her heart was in her work and she was something more than an automaton, dealing out the books called for with mechanical indifference.

Ballington, Richard Ballington—she knew the name from his slips—seemed almost a part of the reading room itself, so regular was he in attendance and his good morning smile was a pleasant opening of the day's routine. Last Christmas he had brought a little gift the day before the holiday and sometimes, when luck was particularly good, a box of candy would come back with a book.

The summer before their vacations had overlapped and for an entire month she had not seen him. She was glad when the vacation was over and she could come back to her place at the desk with the beloved books around her and with Ballington sitting in the chair in a far corner where he was least likely to be disturbed.

For once Linda was glad as the hands of the clock crept around to closing time and she knew that in an hour more she would be free to hurry home and creep into bed. Just before the hands reached the closing hour Ballington rose from his place and brought a book to the desk. Then, just as if he were leaving, he went over to the catalogue and began to scan the cards in one of the drawers. For a few moments Linda watched him, then he looked up with the familiar glance of appeal and she came over to the catalogue drawer.

"Struck for a title?" she asked in a voice so low that it seemed scarcely to be a whisper. "What's the letter?"

"L," said Ballington. "Lo, to be exact."

"Logging?" she asked. "That's under lumber."

"Not logging," he denied. "It's a shorter word. 'Love.'"

"I don't think that's catalogued," she said in dismay. "It's a funny subject. Suppose we look for 'Romance'?"

"Let's look for romance, but not in books," he pleaded. "I know that this is a silly sort of proposal, but I love you, little girl. I've been sure of it ever since last summer, when I missed you for a whole month. Those two weeks when you were away I simply could not do any reading. I've been trying ever since to tell you, but I didn't see how. I don't want to hang around outside of the library until you come out, and I do want you to help me look for romance, Linda, even though it is not in the titles."

"I think it is in the catalogue," she said, softly. "But if you'd rather, I'll help you after hours."

"There may be a romance in the catalogue," said Ballington. "But not as good a romance as there is this moment just outside the drawers. You do care a little bit, Linda."

"Since last vacation," she admitted. "You may come this evening if you like—to begin the study."

Ballington made a note of her address and left the place with elastic step and beating heart, while Linda went back to revive the books the readers were returning. As she gave a final look around as the last book was stacked and the day's work done, she patted the catalogue cabinet as she passed it.

"You're awfully wise," she whispered, "with your thousands of titles, but you haven't a 'Love' and I'm sorry for you." Then Linda walked out to enter a new world.

Only Way He Could Get Even, Frank Bertram, a well-known actor, tells the following story:

"I was playing a Leicester during the fair week, and in the market place there were several merry-go-rounds."

"I noticed one melancholy individual, who despite the fact that he was apparently suffering greatly, persisted in riding one of the merry-go-rounds."

"Eventually I spoke to him and asked if he liked it."

"The man replied, 'No, I don't like it a bit; the blessed thing makes me ill.'"

"I then asked him why he persisted in riding, and his reply was, 'I can't help it. The man who owns this roundabout owes me money, and the only way I can get even is by taking it out in rides.'"

All That's Necessary, "That boy's a musical genius."

"How do you know?" "He remembers every tune he hears."

"What good will that do him?" "When he grows up, he can compose a musical-comedy."

No Use Shifting the Blame, The youthful author pocketed his rejected verses, but could not swallow the editor's criticism.

"Sir, said he, not without dignity, 'a poet is born, not made.'"

"Young man," returned the editor blandly, "it won't help your case to try to shift the blame on to your parents."

Is It Really? He—Miss Highgate is certainly a plain-looking girl, isn't she?

She—Well, she isn't a beauty; but when you hear her sing you will forget her face.

He—Gracious! Is her singing as bad as that?

Hereditarily, "Father, why are you so old-fashioned in your notions?"

"I suppose it's hereditary, my son. I remember when I was your age I asked my father the same question."

"Remember my young friend," said the habitual adviser, "there is always room at the top."

"Are you speaking?" inquired the diffident young man, "as a student of practical affairs or as a phrenologist?"

"Bliggins has hay fever."

"Gracious!" said the absent-minded person. "With hay at its present price, I don't see how he can afford it."

"A fellow accumulates a lot of junk going through college."

"Referring to the classics or pipes and pennants?"

The Caller—Time passes quickly in company, doesn't it?

The victim—Does it?

FOLEY KIDNEY PILLS

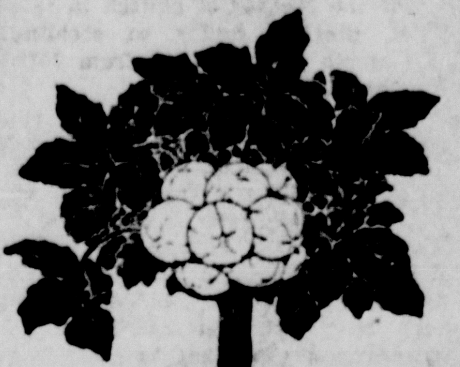

Are tonic in action, quick in results. A special medicine for all kidney and bladder disorders. Mrs. R. Snyder, Springfield, O., says, "For six years I had suffered severely with kidney trouble and had backache together with painful urinary irregularities. I lost sleep and became restless and nervous. A friend advised me to try Foley Kidney Pills which I did. The results were surprising. The pains left my back, my kidney action became regular and normal and without pain. I can sleep all night and all this I attribute to Foley Kidney Pills which I certainly recommend to all for kidney trouble." Blackmer & Tanqueray.

A small boy living with his aunt and grandma, noticed on one occasion that the regular black pepper shaker was partly filled with red pepper. This aroused no little concern on the part of the lad, and, turning to his aunt, who sat next to him at the table, he said: "You better not eat any of that red pepper, Aunt Harriet; grandma says that red pepper kills ants."

MUNYON'S PAW-PAW PILLS

TRADE MARK

Munyon's Paw Paw Pills are unlike all other laxatives or cathartics. They coax the liver into activity by gentle methods. They do not scour; they do not grip; they do not weaken, but they do start all the secretions of the liver and stomach in a way that soon puts these organs in a healthy condition and corrects constipation. In my opinion constipation is responsible for most ailments. There are 26 feet of human bowels, which is really a sewer pipe. When this pipe becomes clogged the whole system becomes poisoned, causing biliousness, indigestion and impure blood, which often produces rheumatism and kidney ailments. No woman who suffers with constipation or any liver ailment can expect to have a clear complexion or enjoy good health. If I had my way I would prohibit the sale of nine-tenths of the cathartics that are now being sold for the reason that they soon destroy the lining of the stomach, setting up serious forms of indigestion, and so paralyze the bowels that they refuse to act unless forced by strong purgatives.

Munyon's Paw Paw Pills are a tonic to the stomach, liver and nerves. They invigorate instead of weaken; they enrich the blood instead of impoverish it; they enable the stomach to get all the nourishment from food that is put into it.

These pills contain no calomel, no dope; they are soothing, healing and stimulating. They school the bowels to act without pain.

So She Worried.

Little Peter, aged three, was shown his new little baby brother and asked what they would do with him.

Being a little country boy, he knew the value of boys when older, so, gazing thoughtfully at the little stranger for a moment, he looked up with a smile.

"Oh, keep him, keep him; he'll be good for sumpin' by and by. He'll be good for tut wood!"—The Delinquent.

Deeply Interested.

Mabel—Oh, I'm just awfully interested in baseball! I have a cousin who belongs to a college bunch.

George—Indeed! And what position does he play?

Mabel—Well, I forgot just now whether he's a knocker or a stopper.

William had just returned from college resplendent in peg-top trousers, silk hosiery, a fancy waistcoat, and a necktie that spoke for itself. He entered the library where his father was reading. The old gentleman looked up and surveyed his son. The longer he looked, the more disgusted he became.

"Son," he finally blurted out, "you look like a fool!"

Later, the old Major who lived next door, came in and greeted the boy heartily. "William," he said, with undisguised admiration, "you look exactly like your father did twenty years ago when he came back from school."

"Yes," replied William, with a smile, "so father was just telling me."

Little Alice, from the time she learned to talk, showed a marked talent for inventing reasons why she should not be whipped. One day, however, her mother returning unexpectedly, found her holding three tiny birds, taken from a ground sparrow's nest, and caught red-handed, as it were, an excuse to save herself from the approaching spanking did not suggest itself with the usual ease.

"Mother," she said finally, "those ill birds were tired and bored of staying in that nest. When I got to them they were every one yawning."

A small boy living with his aunt and grandma, noticed on one occasion that the regular black pepper shaker was partly filled with red pepper. This aroused no little concern on the part of the lad, and, turning to his aunt, who sat next to him at the table, he said: "You better not eat any of that red pepper, Aunt Harriet; grandma says that red pepper kills ants."

THEIR ENGAGEMENT.

She entered the room hastily. He was awaiting her.

"I was afraid you would be thinking I had forgotten," she said.

"No," he responded calmly, in the tone of one who is master of himself. "An engagement is an engagement with me."

She was a beautiful girl. A wealth of chestnut hair rippled below the wide brim of her bonnet. Her close-fitting tailored gown yielded to every movement of her supple form.

He was a bit above the average height, a clean-cut, square-jawed chap, whose every expression bespoke self-reliance.

As he looked at her his glance was deterred, not timid.

"It has been a long time since we saw each other," he remarked.

"Yes, nearly a year," she replied. "But do you remember when I left—that time you said I would have to come back?"

"Yes. You should have come sooner than this."

"But I have been so busy—going and coming, dances, dinners, the theater, and all."

"I know. And you were married, too?"

His voice did not tremble as he asked this, yet across her face there flashed a quick tingle of humiliation.

"I—I would rather not speak of that," she observed, almost coldly. "That is all over. We—we—it was to be expected. The truth is, we were not meant for each other. So I—I got a divorce."

"It was better so, no doubt," he responded gently. "Won't you sit down?"

She took the chair he indicated, and as he looked down at her she flashed him a sudden smile.

"I was afraid of you the last time," she said merrily.

"But—you are not afraid now?"

His voice seemed to give her assurance. She smiled again.

"No, indeed."

He put his fingers beneath her dimpled chin and tilted her bonny head back, then gazed at her earnestly. Her limpid eyes looked up at him trustingly. The rose-pink of her cheeks came and went fitfully.

The white of her throat throbbled with each breath. He bent nearer to her still with that gaze. Her lips were parted.

He raised his head and she looked out of the window silently.

There was a pause. At last she spoke.

"What are you studying about? What have you decided?"

"I think I'll have to fill two of your teeth," he said quietly. "The rest are all right. You have taken better care of them than most women do."—Life.

Mo her took little Laura with her to visit a neighbor whom the stork had lately visited. During the visit Laura asked for a drink, whereupon mother took a glass of water from the window sill and offered it to her, but she refused to touch it. When asked the reason, she shyly replied: "I'm afraid I'll catch the disease that lady has."

Desperation.

"Are you running a hospital?" asked the advertising clerk through the telephone.

"No, sir," answered the tired voice at the other end of the wire, "but I want to advertise for three nurses just the same. I'm the father of triplets, and they're all teething at once."—Chicago Tribune.

Speaking of excuse, there is some curiosity to know what kind of a one the quinine has been so often.

Curing Catarrh

Accept Our Advice and Try This Remedy at Our Risk.

Catarrh is a disease of the mucous membrane. The mucous membrane is, one may say, the interior lining of the body. Catarrh therefore may exist in any part of the system.

When the catarrhal poison attacks the mucous membrane, inflammation and congestion are produced and nature fails to throw off the accumulated poisons. The organ which has been afflicted ceases to perform its proper function as nature intended it should. The result is, complication upon complication, which may lead to other even more serious afflictions.

We honestly believe Rexall Mucuo-Tone will do wonders toward overcoming catarrh. It is made from the prescription of an eminent physician who made a long study of catarrh, and his great success with this remedy was an enviable one.

We want you if you are a sufferer from catarrh in any form, to give Rexall Mucuo-Tone a thorough trial. Use it with regularity and persistence for a reasonable time, then if you are not satisfied, come back and tell us, and without question or formality we will hand back to you every cent you paid us. This is certainly the fairest offer that any one could make and should attest our sincerity of purpose. It comes in two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain it only at—The Rexall Store, Blackmer & Tanqueray.
